The successful candidate will be expected to assist in the strengthening and development of the audiology Programme through academic leadership, research and education of undergraduate and postgraduate students and relevant service. The incumbent will also be expected to maintain their own research programme, and to contribute to divisional activities.

Requirements:

- A masters degree in audiology or relevant field
- Experience in teaching or supervising students
- Minimum two years of clinical experience in audiology
- Expertise/experience in the following areas of audiology: electrophysiology, central auditory processing assessment and management and/or diagnostics for special populations
- Excellent interpersonal abilities
- Excellent written and verbal communication skills
- Registered (and in good standing) with the Health Professions Council of South Africa (HPCSA) as an audiologist

Advantages:

- A Doctoral (research) degree in audiology
- Relevant work experience at an academic institution
- Publication record
- Experience with postgraduate research supervision in audiology

Specific Responsibilities:

- Academic and clinical teaching of undergraduate courses in the audiology programme
- Supervision of undergraduate and postgraduate research projects
- Maintain own research programme to encourage evidence-based practice in both teaching and clinical practice
- Administrative and management duties at divisional and departmental levels
- Participate in socially responsive activities aligned with the university's vision and mission

The annual cost of employment for 2021, including benefits, is R 765 575.
